

WOOD'S PUPILS WIN TYPEWRITING HONORS

Commercial Institution Turns Out Many Who Are Proficient on Keyboard.

Wood's Commercial School is equipped with number 10 Remington typewriters and the following persons were awarded gold medals for superior work and accuracy on the Remington—some of these students wrote as high as ninety words a minute with but two errors:

Gertrude Martin, Bernice Wilson, Elizabeth Keir, Ruby Carter, Elsie Fox, Josephine Collins, Margaret Parater, Gertrude Wintermyer.

More of these medals were awarded to Wood's Commercial School than to all of the other schools in Washington combined; in fact since the awards plan permitting but one error a minute for ten minutes, the above named school has captured all of the medals awarded by the Remington Company in Washington.

Awarded Card Cases.
The following forty-one students were awarded certificates and card cases by the Remington Typewriter Company of New York for writing forty words or over a minute on the Remington for ten minutes with not over fifteen errors:

Ora Carver, Anita Donn, Marie Smith, Robert Fellers, Wallace Fuhrman, Ida Hartig, Esther Hunter Johnson, Margaret Parater, Emily Taylor, John McConnell, Agnes Moore, May Roberts, Elsie Fox, Elizabeth Keir, Pauline Johnson, Mae Burns, Gertrude Martin, Lawrence Roy, Jean Jackson, Harry Young, Bernice Wilson, Josephine Collins, Bertha Sanders, Helen Hopkins, Gertrude Wintermyer, Bernice Goodrich, Eva Sokol, Josephine Metz, Frances Martin, Carrie Matthews, Walter Disney, Mary Hickey, Katherine Scanlon, Charlotte Brown, William Rees, Mrs. W. H. Jones, Russell W. Ritenour, Margaret McFadden, Leonard J. McCarthy, Earl S. Baldwin, Shaw Thompson.

Get Credential Certificates.
Eighty-five students received the Underwood credential certificates since April 1, 1916. This is more certificates than were awarded to all the other schools in Washington combined.

These students all wrote forty or more words a minute according to the international contest rules, and it speaks volumes for the Underwood typewriter, and for the teacher at Wood's Commercial School, the above named teacher has been secured for the ensuing year. The successful students follow:

Miss Naomi O'Donnell, Miss Edna Hall, William Cahenaky, Miss Agnes Stewart, Miss Doris Petrova, Miss Beas Burke, Miss Rose Burns, Miss Alice Gibbons, Miss Lillian Kastendike, Miss Mabel Logue, Miss Sue Magruder, Miss Albena Viner, Miss Hattie Neill, Miss Alma Pugh, Miss Ellen Magruder, Miss Rose Hyler, Robert Fellers, Miss Kathryn Burke, Vincent Smith, Miss Jean Gruckshanks, Miss Ruby Carter, Miss Mona Nelson, Miss Ida Hartig, William Weber, Miss Anna Barker, Miss Josephine Metz, John Davis, Miss Agnes McLane, Carl Willingham, Charles F. Watts, Miss Emily Taylor, Brower Clark, John McConnell, Miss May Robey, Walter Disney, Miss Elsie Fox, Clyde Bailey, Miss Ruth Alsworth, Leonard McCarthy, John Arthur, John Stewart, Arthur Jones, Edward Brosman, Miss Elizabeth Keir, Miss Katherine Scanlon, William Rees, Miss Frances Martin, Miss Eva Clark, Miss Catherine Brown, Russell Ritenour, Miss Mary Hickey, Miss Anna

Varnon, Miss Amelia Korn, Miss Ora Carver, Miss Mary Pape, Harry West, Vincent Wintermyer, Lawrence Roy, Kenneth Meem, Miss Anita Donn, Miss Katherine Rafferty, Francis Jenkins, Miss Gertrude Martin, Millard Blum, Miss Jean Jackson, Miss Helen Hopkins, Miss Bertha Sanders, Albert Bowman, Miss Ester H. Johnson, Miss Josephine Collins, Miss Bernice Wilson, Miss Gertrude Wintermyer, Lewis E. Talbert, Miss Helen O'Donnell, Miss Eva Sokol, Miss Carrie Burns, Miss Matilda Edwards, Shaw Thompson, Miss Elizabeth MacDaniel, Miss Grace Blauvelt, William Ritenour, Joseph P. Frantuono, Miss Mary McFadden.

GEORGE WASHINGTON OLDEST LAW SCHOOL

George Washington University Law School, established in 1825, is the oldest in the District of Columbia.

Wednesday, September 27, it begins its fifty-second year of continuous session, with prospects of a continuance in steady growth in registration which has marked the last three years.

The course of study prepares for the practice of law in any English-speaking jurisdiction, and is all the professional study required for admission to the bar examinations of any State.

The thorough preparation, earnestness, and maturity of the students of the law school make one of its chief attractions. In 1915-16 of the candidates for degrees 85 per cent were college trained, and 103 of them were college graduates. The average age was over twenty-six years.

The aim of the law school is not primarily to impart information but to train its students in correct methods of legal study and reasoning. About three-fourths of the subjects are taught by the analytic study of decided cases.

The student follows from the day he enters the school the methods which he must use after he goes into practice. There are three branches of the moot court—equity, circuit, and criminal—and in these each third year student is required to try several cases, conducting them to conclusion. The moot court has been in successful operation for over twenty years, and has been chosen as a model by several schools.

The school gives more instruction in patent law than any other school in the United States. Two classes are offered. One is devoted to patent law practice, and the other deals with substantive patent law and Patent Office practice.

One of our busiest artists, Mme. Marie von Unschuld returned this week to open the thirteenth school year of the von Unschuld University of Music. Piano teachers from more than twenty States gathered in her summer courses held for six weeks in Newport and Boston, and for three weeks in the West, as extension branches of the university. A great number of the enthusiastic students of the well known pedagogues whose stay out of town was not precisely a vacation.

The university has just issued its new catalogue showing many innovations and newly created courses, as well as addition of artists in the faculty and this superior institution looks forward to a scholastic year most beneficial to its students.

TO OPEN SESSIONS EARLY IN OCTOBER

National University Law School
Will Inaugurate Changes and Additions to Courses.

The National University Law School will reopen its doors for its forty-eighth annual session October 2.

Many changes and additions have been made in the courses of study offered and in the faculty. One of the most important changes is the combination of the text-book and case-book methods of instruction. The combination system enables the student to secure the benefit of the text-book and class room instruction, and then with another set of instructors to take up the leading cases which illustrate and clarify the general principles. The problem of correct methods of instruction in Washington is complicated by the fact that the student body of many schools, and notably the National Law School, is composed of civil service employees and others not able to devote their whole time to the study of law. The National Law School has sought to so arrange its courses, its hours, and its methods of instruction as to give best results possible to those who had only a certain number of hours which could be devoted to class room instruction and home study.

The old school building on Thirteenth street, between New York avenue and I street, has become one of the landmarks of the city, and in its halls have been heard many of the most distinguished judges and members of the bar in the District since the civil war. The university was organized in 1869, and later was reorganized under special act of Congress in 1896.

There have been graduated during the nearly half-century of the law school's existence nearly 3,000 men who form a powerful alumni association with members in every State and Territory.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

Georgetown University
The Law School
Session of 1916-1917 begins October 2, 1916, at 6:30 p. m.

Secretary's office open daily from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. for registration and consultation.

HUGH J. FEGAN, Secretary.
Georgetown Law School Building,
6th and E Sts. N. W.
Telephone M. 7293.

Washington College of Music, Inc.
S. M. Fabian, Pres.
Fourteenth year opens Sept. 11. Enlarged faculty including S. M. Fabian, piano; Edgar T. Paul, voice; C. Schriani, violin; Frank Jones, piano; Suzanne Oldberg, voice; Ernest Lent, cello. Public School Music. Two distinct courses for supervisors and grade teachers conducted by Hamilton 1147 Conn. Ave. Phone For Year Book

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year the association created four alumni scholarships for the benefit of Eastern, Western, Central and Business High Schools.

The officers of the university are Hon. Eugene Carusi, LL. D., chancellor, and John L. Cassin, treasurer.

There are four graduates of the law school now serving in Congress, and the president of the alumni association is Charles C. Carlin, member from Virginia.

One of the activities of the association which is now under foot is in the form of a bureau which will assist in location of graduates of the institution in law offices and business employments with which the association through its members is in touch. Last year